To Whom It May Concern:

This letter serves to summarize the informal feedback collected from students in ECON 2106: Principles of Microeconomics (Summer 2025) for Ms. Aditi Choudhary, whose class size did not meet the Franklin College threshold for formal evaluations. Because of this, brief informal feedback forms were distributed after the final grades were released, serving as a substitute for standard evaluations. Two students completed these forms, and both rated Ms. Choudhary a 5 (out of 5) on every evaluation item, including preparedness, clarity of instruction, fairness of workload and assessment, accessibility to students, and overall teaching effectiveness.

Evaluation Criterion	Rating
Class sessions were interesting, and the instructor was well prepared	5/5
The workload was reasonable, assignments helped me learn and exams were fair	5/5
I knew what I needed to do to succeed in this course	5/5
I was comfortable approaching the instructor to talk about this course	5/5
Overall, the instructor was effective at teaching this course.	5/5
I would recommend this class to a friend	5/5

Students consistently praised Ms. Choudhary's deep command of the material, her clarity in explaining complex economic concepts, and her approachability both inside and outside the classroom. One student highlighted her exceptional ability to connect theoretical principles to relatable examples and to respond thoughtfully to all questions, even those extending beyond the syllabus. Another commended her seriousness, patience, and commitment to student learning.

While feedback was overwhelmingly positive, students offered only minor suggestions, such as speaking slightly more slowly in certain lectures or releasing practice exercises earlier to allow more preparation time. These remarks were framed as constructive and did not detract from students' strong endorsement of Ms. Choudhary's teaching.

Overall, these informal evaluations reflect outstanding teaching performance and strong student appreciation for Ms. Choudhary's professionalism, clarity, and engagement in ECON 2106.

Sincerely,
